

The Why and Whereof of Woman's Dress

Modern Styles Reverting Back to Live, says a Strathmore Woman

Good taste in dress need not mean expensive dress, but the right dress in the right place. The first consciousness of shame, and the need to cover the body from sight, and by looking around us today, it looks as if we need to pass the apple again, for the present up-to-date woman's dress is coming very close to the proverbial fig leaf. There has been talk of standardizing women's dress, and bills in government, and laws to prohibit high heels, but still we have and will have them as long as we have different types of people, for what will suit one woman, may be the very opposite for another, in good taste in dress.

Time, Place and Material
To be correctly dressed gives a woman an ease of mind and an assurance that goes far towards making her able to meet the world at large better than if she were conscious of not looking right, and just here the suggestion that we be just as careful of a little more so of the fit and hang of the back of our costumes, that the front. With our personality, that conservation we can make others lose thought of what we really wear, but we have not the right at all of it to uphold how we look when our backs are turned.

Business on the employee dresses which we have with us today, for who may forget the sight of the "brass safety pin, which used to be so much in evidence in keeping those heavy skirts from slipping below the belt." And really the brass safety pin was a relief to the sight of the brass one.

At the Breakfast Table
We hear so much of the husband and the newspaper at the breakfast table. I wonder if it might not be just as much a trial to him to always look upon his wife's cap and papers and dressing gowns, or times that ought never to be seen outside the privacy of your own bedroom? A neat house dress or slip over apron, would be much more agreeable to look upon, than the "bedroom" garments, we chose material of longcloths, muslin, crepe and if the purse permits, of crepe de chine, kimono suit and have chosen for the times and use intended. For the average woman the suit is an indispensable article, and we have seen of jerseys, sear, ribbons and tweeds in wool, and a sensible suit and neat blouse of softer material and becoming colors, fits one ready for inspection at all times.

When we come to the "sport clothes," we use tricotette, pongee or new silk, serge, flannel, poplin, duck, black cloth, Indianhead, and just now the sweater in wool and artificial silk is taking a prominent place. Take a flannel skirt of serge or sweater in daring colors as you want to change, are being taken to choose hat, shoes and how to complete the perfect picture, else your effort is lost in materials.

For afternoon and evening clothes we come to the richer materials for these, and we have the de clines, georgettes, satins and tulle, combined, and with rich laces; beaded and jeweled, and embellished, as gowns permit. In color, we have all conceivable shades to choose from, and becoming colors must be chosen suitable for the type only for what may be kept by coming on someone you see use it, maybe one you could not use at all. Showing again the impossibility of a certain standard of color. We find some complexion hard to suit and perhaps a combination of color is best for them.

Suitable style is another thing we must pay attention to. For instance the tall and the short woman, can not possibly use the same style. Likewise the stout and the thin. The woman who uses ready made must know her style and select to suit her type. The one who has her dresses made must know her type or leave it to the one who is making for they must of necessity know how to adapt the different styles to the figure of her customers. Many have a little waist, where nature made it slim, and everywhere the fashion trend the waist was sure to go.

Styles of Other Days
Just now we have waist lines which we see fit to put, being careful not to make them protrude.

In looking back over the styles the centuries have given us, we wonder what the most can be, in the United States they are making a collection of dresses worn by the different first "ladies of the land" and in seeing the picture of them, we see the changing styles. One lady, was the popularity of giving one of hers, but being shown it would receive more publicity not to give it; she gave one as an exhibit. How I wish our girls had to take military training, that they would carry an erect figure at all times. How much easier it would be to dress them becomingly. We see those that would make such fine specimens of womanhood not careful of their carriage at all, and it makes so much difference with the dress.

In the present day the "ready-to-wear" firms are using every avenue to get the attention of the public, and you are losing first-hand information not to notice advertisements in our newspapers both for styles and material, and it seems no excuse can be offered when we don't know "what is what." True it is a vast study to know materials, but it is a study worth while, for it means so much when it comes to a financial outfit for our clothes.

To be appropriately dressed is our first duty, and to be, is not to outdress others. One other thought comes to mind and that is a uniform type of dress for the school girls, how much more sensible than the frizzle dress fabrics we see in the schoolroom from the grades to the colleges, would be one-type costume for all girls. It would make it easier for the mothers, and not nearly so dangerous for the girls, for in such a way would be done away with the thought of dress alone, and leave more room for the real fundamentals. We keep them in school for the training of the mind in the sciences and arts to make them better able to meet the world. Thus in giving these thoughts to you, we remember the time, the place, the dress means so much. That the expensive dress is not always good taste in dress, that often a little simple wash dress would be in better taste than rich materials. And we owe it to ourselves, that we have these in measure suited to our means, to be able to appear to good advantage when we do appear.

Milk Cows Bring Good Prices

A successful auction sale of dairy cattle was held at the C.P.R. Demonstration Farm, Strathmore, last Thursday, forty head of cattle being disposed of to Mr. J. W. Durno, auctioneer.

The most of the stock realized good prices, ranging from $10 to $150. Ayrshire and Holstein breeds realized the best prices.

The company's milking herd of seven cows is now exclusively Holstein, the object of the sale being to dispose of the other breeds.

The buyers were principally outside buyers, Mr. Cardlake, Banff, and Mr. Patterson, Calgary, being prominent.

Calgary, Alta.—Willard Mack, the famous author and playwright, whose "Tiger Feet" won widespread popularity, is in Calgary collaborating with the Hon. J. H. Brown, Minister of Police, and author of "Benton of the Royal Mounted" and "The Luck of the Mounted," in the preparation of a new play to be devoted to "The Maple Leaf Men." Mack whose parents live on a big farm near Calgary, is looking for production material devoid of much explanation, alien and packed out. Kendall as the author best fitted to supply his needs.

Kamloops, B.C.—The plant of the recently organized Kamloops Canning Company has commenced its operations in the processing of tomatoes. It is expected that the season's crop of "Kamloops Tomatoes" will be between ten and twelve thousand cases.

That Is What You Can Do Provided You Take Advantage of Our Offer

We have made arrangements with the E. H. Heath Co. Limited who publish the CANADIAN POWER FARMER whereby we are able to offer that farm magazine together with our own weekly at the one price for both papers.

The CANADIAN POWER FARMER is Western Canada's biggest farm monthly. It is now in its twentieth year which means that it is thoroughly established throughout the West. It deals with the mechanical side of the farm. Every issue is full of helpful hints and experiences on the operation of all kinds of farm machinery from a washing-machine to a tractor. Its editor has just completed a trip of several months over Western Canada in a motor car for the purpose of studying the mechanical needs of the farmers. He visited the farmers, lived with them and worked with them. The results of his trip will appear during the next twelve months.

This offer may be withdrawn at any time. Without doubt, your intention is to save for this weekly, then why not take advantage now. Your subscription to this weekly, together with a year's subscription to THE CANADIAN POWER FARMER for the same price as this weekly alone. You make $1.50 on a bushel of wheat.

Miss Laut Says Strathmore Isn't Dry

Writing in the latest issue of the "Financial Post," Toronto, Miss Agnes C. Laut, Canadian writer and publicist has an article on "What To Do With the Drought-dried Farmer." In this article she gives an outline of the situation, advocating irrigation for lands that can be irrigated, and for those that can't be irrigated, she reserves her suggestions for a future issue.

Miss Laut was in Strathmore this summer for Chautauqua, and assisted in the opening of Strathmore War Memorial Hall, and she has evidently been taking notes, for she has the following to say in the course of the article.

"The next and best remedy is, of course, irrigation, and it looks good on paper and better where it is put in effect. This is a whole story in itself. I saw irrigated regions this summer. Strathmore is one—where big crops and prosperity are universal. Before irrigation came, Strathmore was an arid spot on an arid spot."

Miss Laut in this instance, however, is in some extent under a mis-conception, for Strathmore was never at any time an arid spot, though fifteen years ago it was not even a spot on the map. The greater proportion of the land around this district is still non-irrigated, and though this year has been dry, yet it has not been dry in the sense as understood by "dry" in many parts of Southern Alberta, and there has never been a crop failure here.

Local Bettings

OF LOCAL INTEREST
Readers are requested to send in items for this column not later than 12 o'clock Monday noon preceding day of publication. All local news items are welcomed by the Standard, Phone 17 or 68.

As will be seen from our advertising columns, Mr. C. E. Collin has entered the painting business in Strathmore, and is located in the old Maple Leaf Hotel.

Mr. A. Layzell is holding a sale of twenty head mares and geldings, twenty head colts, and six sets harness, at Strathmore, on Saturday of this week. Details will be found in our advertising columns.

A case of considerable interest will be tried in Calgary this week, being Nicholson vs. Pelger, and involving the ownership of a half-share of the 1626 crop grown by these parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner, parents of Mr. Robert Gardner, of the Pioneer Meat Market, are visiting him at present.

Mr. D. O. McNeill, District Deputy of Masonic District No. 7, is paying an official visit to Strathmore-Mossburn Lodge on Monday next.

Mr. W. S. Patterson, of the C.P.R. staff, has been confined to bed as a consequence of a recurrence of effects of injuries sustained in active service. Mr. Patterson pretends to be a cabinet maker, but, owing to disabilities sustained during the war was unable to follow his former business. He took a course in draftsmanship, and then went into the employ of the local department of the C.P. Irrigation Department, where he has been doing very effective work. In his spare moments this summer Mr. Patterson superintended and worked voluntarily on the erection of the stage front at the Memorial Hall with several other boys, and they have made a very artistic job. We trust he will soon be able to be around.

Annual Xmas Bazaar, held by the Ladies Guild, on Saturday, December 2nd.

Mr. James Gann, another war veteran, was laid up for some time with rheumatism, but is now able to be around again.

Mr. Joe Whyte is moving into his new premises on Second Street this week. Details will be found in our advertising columns.

Mr. R. O. (Happy) Day is now engineer of the municipal power plant at Oyen, Alberta, and getting on well.

Mr. F. W. Burton, now dairy farming near Calgary, and formerly of the Nanaimo Colony, attended the C.P.R. Auction Sale on Thursday.

Mr. J. G. Bell has been seriously ill with pneumonia, since Friday.

A mop peddler was mugged up by Constable Anderson on a charge of peddling without a town license, and was fined $15 and costs before Mr. Vickery, J.P. He intimated an appeal.

An enormous dance, under the auspices of Strathmore G.W.A., was held in the Memorial Hall on Friday evening last. There was a good turnout, in spite of the fact that the hall was not heated, and ladies with decollete costumes felt the atmospheric conditions rather chilly. However, everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Music was supplied by Mrs. Walton's Orchestra. This will be the last function to be held in the hall this winter until it is plastered, as the weather conditions cannot be depended on now. If the plaster work can be started soon, it can be completed in a month's time, and the hall put in use again.

"Mary's Millions" is the title of a play to be produced by Strathmore Amateurs sometime this month. The rehearsals are proceeding very satisfactorily, and the play, which is a humorous one, is more ambitious than any that have been performed here in the past.

Don't forget—Catholic Ladies are holding a pantry sale, also sewing etc. in Oddfellows Hall, October 8th. Afternoon tea will be served.

WESTERN CANADA AND THE TARIFF

Is the tariff a benefit to Western Canada? Is it a benefit to Canada as a whole? These are questions on which much of the election arguments will be based. They are among the most vital that confront the country.

The main industry in Western Canada is farming. The Western grain crop is Canada's most important export. The men who raise the grain crops of Western Canada do not derive any benefit from the tariff. Another important basic industry of Western Canada is coal-mining. The miner does not benefit from the tariff. Western Canada coal cannot compete with the United States product in Ontario and the East, because of the rail haul.

The tariff has been a benefit to the manufacturing centres of the East. It has preserved for them a large market in Western Canada. If Eastern Canada absorbed the products of the West the tariff would justify itself in the eyes of the Western farmer, but it does not. Ninety per cent. of our wheat crop is exported mainly to Britain, which admits it free. But we do not return this to the British manufacturer.

Artists pay a high duty.

The consequence of this is that farming in Western Canada is conducted at a disadvantage. It is operated under an artificial handicap, which when added to the natural handicap of sending an export market and transporting grain over five thousand miles before it reaches the consumer reduces the profit.

Much attention is being paid at present to the shipment westward of Alberta grain, to Vancouver and Prince Rupert, to be loaded into ocean steamships and taken through the Panama Canal to Great Britain. This is a more economical way of shipment than across Canada by rail, lake, and salt water in the Eastern seaboard. It is being tried out experimentally at present. It will not be attractive, however, to shippers unless they can carry cargoes both ways. The tariff on British goods militates against this. The apparent reason is to take the tariff off British goods, not all at once, possibly, but gradually. The programme of the Farmers' Party provides for Free Trade with Britain in five years. Ultimately Western Canada will have industries of its own. They are coming in gradually by the tariff is not encouraging them. If the farmers of Western Canada have more money to spend there will be more industries in Canada.

For practical as well as sentimental reasons, therefore, we should lower the tariff bars on our best customers, Great Britain.

The East will probably vote largely in the coming election for a continuance of the present tariff, but there is no reason why Western Canadians should. It is purely an economic question.

We cannot live without markets, and the best way to keep these markets is to buy in return from the people who buy from us.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Union Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Joe North the second Thursday of October, at 7 p.m. All ladies of the congregation are cordially invited.

A Farmer for East Calgary

The week farmers of East and West Calgary meet to nominate candidates for these ridings. There is a proposal, based on the government side, to have been come to eighteen months ago, that the Farmers Party nominate a candidate only in one constituency and leave the other one for Labor.

We cannot see why a Farmer candidate should not be nominated in both constituencies. The industries which are represented in Calgary are some of them basic industries. They are all dependent on the farming community.

A Labor candidate will gain some votes in the city, but will lose some in the country. A Farmer candidate should get votes both in city and country, for the cities are now very inhospitable to the Farmer cause.

Since every East Calgary was born of we have been represented in a city man. The time was never better for electing a Farmer candidate with the consent of the city. A city dweller, even with the best intentions in the world, can understand the economic situation that confronts the farmer. It is not a matter of politics. It is a matter of business. A successful farmer can be well trained in the present economic situation, prosperity depends on the products of the soil.

IS AMERICA DRY?
Apparently Hogg and Hogg, the famous distilling firm of Glasgow, Scotland, and London, England, are of the opinion that America is dry.

The following is from an article in London "Punch":
"I am here a very famous hotel, all over the world. There you see both sides of me. I carry the finest whisky that grows out of Scotland. My business is selling for sale. Dry America can afford to say no to me."

Is America a free land of whisky? Dry America has a reputation for being all right and can be said to be all right. This and Hogg say, "Give a country a reputation for being dry and it can drink as much as it likes."

If you are in the drinking position of being in "Prohibition" England you will not set me easily.

IS STRATHMORE DRY?
We are afraid that in this question also the answer must be given in the negative. The fact that Strathmore Town Council are endorsing a dry petition is evidence to the contrary.

There is a law on the statute books of this province at the present time that liquor is only to be obtained for medicinal purposes on a doctor's prescription. The way things are working out at present some people are taking the liquor first and getting sick afterwards.

We do not believe that here, as it is being sold here, at present, is not suitable for drunkenness. There must be a lot of changes before this, but circulating throughout the Province to ensure the series that are occurring every day, not only in Strathmore, but in every centre throughout the Province. The police are doing their best to catch the bootleggers, but the task is a very difficult one, as the evidence is so small that the reward, in the opinion of those engaged in the traffic, warrants the risk of the penalty on conviction.

If the effect of the prohibition law is to convert the nation into a race of drinkers of hard spirits, badly disciplined and the next thing to poison, then it is time to choose before the habit is too firmly established. Light beer, with the non-alcoholic closely controlled and the purity guaranteed and sold by licensed establishments, with heavy fines for drunkenness, misbehavior and concentration of police activities on peddlers of hard liquor would be a partial remedy.

PESSIMISM DOESN'T PAY

Apparently we are face to face with a hard winter. Throughout the great or part of Alberta the crops are not up to the average. In some districts there is almost a total failure, the prices being paid for the farmers produce are not on a par with the prices they are paying for the goods they buy, livestock prices are more depressed than they have been for a generation, and unemployment is rife in the cities.

It is not a pleasant outlook, especially for the man who is out of work, or the man who is in debt. But it might be much worse. Vide Dr. Hogg. The chances here are all for improvement.

There is no use in sitting down and whining about it. That won't improve matters. The duty of every man of woman, farmer, manufacturer, or laborer is to make as good a use as they can of the opportunity they have. Hard work, both manual and mental, is the solution of depression. Dependence on the Government only makes things worse.

Some people do not like the methods of the organized farmer, but they are really adopting the only sensible method of action. If you are not satisfied that the Government is power are working in your interests, try and put them out, and get some of your own views into power. There will be a general election in December of this year and the opportunity was never better to get a representative Government. When government are again a large vote is certain, and therefore a more representative Government.

Locally, we are pleased to see that the people of the district are awaking by the overblow of year, and are using to use them as the foundation for a bigger crop year. There will be a much larger use of irrigation for one thing. The experience has been that with hard and regular crops, the crop is increased, and the soil has been twice as good as the old soil. Next year irrigation will be much more available. There is not a great reserve of water in the soil. More water will be used, and the irrigation department will have to supply more help, so that the farmer can get the water in good time.

The livestock problem is one of the most serious of all facing the Province, and the men of government are trying to find means of stabilizing the market.

DE DUCKS GOT ALL THE PROFIT

The Rochester, Minn. Post and Record of July 22, printed the following: Indianapolis, Ind. "When a hard farm of sold his corn recently he tried to explain to a hunter the necessity of a loan to ride over the bank period, the necessity of market problems as faced by the farmer now were out of him."

"But," said the banker, "I do not understand why you should want to borrow money when you have just shipped your corn. What did you do with the money?"

"De Ducks got it," replied the farmer.

"What do you mean by de ducks?" "Well," the farmer explained, "I shipped the corn to market and sold it at 22 cents a bushel. The de ducks found that, let 21 cents, de ducks 1 cent commission, that let 20c; de ducks cents elevator charges, that let 19c; de ducks handling, that let 18c; de ducks hauling, that let 17c; de ducks hired man's wages, and you are a duck right better farmer than I am if you can find anything left."

Hodge "I want an indecent amount."

Shopkeeper—"An indecent amount, I suppose you mean."

Banlie—"Aye, one of them perverted 'uns."

An about minded professor of biology at one of the northern universities addressed his class thus: "I propose now to show you a very fine specimen of a dissected frog which I have here in this parcel."

Unhappily, the parcel, he disclosed some antiques, a hard-boiled egg, and some trout.

"This—surely I ate my lunch," he said.

First Material—"I thought you said I should get off?"

Second Material—"Were you?"

First Material—"Yes, I said, 'Good morning, Judge, how are you today?' and he replied, 'Fine—25'."

Extract from a laundry advertisement: "Don't kill your wife but in 15 years dirty work."

The maiden of forty or so was once. "Maiden" said so outrageously. Yesterday she told me I was nothing but a hopeless old maid."

"That pretty frank," exclaimed her friend. "Still, it's better than having her tell lies about you."

Jackson—"I laughed I knew all about motor cars."

Johnson—"And what made you think otherwise?"

"I never realized how many parts my motor car had until it struck a telegraph pole."

Morris—"When you told me that you wanted to marry me, did you put his foot down?"

William (ruefully)—"No, darling; he raised it."

Tramp—"I have seen better days, sir."

Barry Men—"Yes, I suppose so; but I haven't time to discuss the weather with you now."

An enterprising shoe salesman was trying to persuade a farmer to buy a bicycle. The farmer was in town for the day, and had determined to see everything.

"I'd rather spend my money on a cow," he said proudly.

"But think," said the assistant, "What a fast you'd look riding about on a cow."

"Not half the fun as I'd look trying to milk a bicycle," answered the farmer.

Edmonton, Alta.—A factory will be erected here in the near future. It is reported, for the manufacturing of fence posts from straw by a secret process and a solution known as stonetic.

George Land, of Vancouver, who has the Alberta rights of Elwood Gossett, Kansas City, Mo., is back of the project.

Winnipeg, Man.—E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who is on a tour of the company's western lines, predicted a gradual return to prosperity in Canada, based on the fact that there is an excellent crop in the West. He further stated that it is possible, indeed probable, that during the fall there will be an improvement, largely due to the stimulus and increased purchasing power, because of excellent western crops.

IRRICANA NEWS

A farewell party was given at the hotel for Miss Jean Gould on Thursday evening prior to her departure for her home in Calgary. Miss Gould has been engaged as bookkeeper at McCulloch's Hardware store for the past few months.

Miss M. Kernick spent the weekend in Irricana.

Threshing will be about over here in another week.

The Ladies Aid are planning a chicken supper in the near future.

Prior to Mrs. Swanson's departure for Olds the members of the Ladies Aid presented her with a cut glass marmalade jar.

Mr. Neese is in British Columbia where he intends to make his home. Mrs. Neese and daughter, Vera, expect to join him in a short time.

KEOMA ITEMS

A meeting of the local branch of the C.F.A. was held last Sunday day week. Owing to threshing operations being in full swing, a very small crowd was present.

Last Wednesday evening the Ladies Aid held a most successful entertainment and chicken pie supper. Over fifty-three dollars was collected. A good sized crowd was present.

Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Ranky who have just left on their long journey to New Zealand wish to bid their many friends goodbye.

As the Keoma correspondent has left the district, would a resident volunteer to send in items from week to week?

Don't forget—Catholic Ladies are holding a pantry sale, also sewing etc. in Oddfellows Hall, October 31. Afternoon tea will be served.

Annual Xmas Bazaar, held by the Ladies Guild, on Saturday, December 3rd.

Police Court Cases

Editor, Strathmore Standard:

I must take exception to your report based as above in your last issue, on the ground that the statement that the men were hired for the threshing season is incorrect, and equally ground for comment against my decisions falls.

It was clearly proven, and not disputed by the employer, that the men were engaged by the day, so that they were liable to be fired, or entitled to quit, without notice on either side.

The employer did not adopt that method of getting rid of the men, but set up a defence, which he was unable to prove, that he had arranged with the men that they were to be paid him for board at the rate of $1.50 per day, for the days the men were idle through no fault of their own, consequently in awarding the men the wages claimed, I am satisfied I did what I conceived to be both law and justice.

Yours truly,

E. W. H. Lambert, J.P.

Town Council Appoints Night Cop

Strathmore Town Council held a short but interesting session on Friday evening, when they appointed Mr. J. Mulvihill as night policeman.

In introducing the subject, Mayor Butler said that warning had been received that a crime wave might be looked for this winter, primarily on account of the unemployment situation.

The cities were making extra preparations, and towns adjacent to cities were not alone of fire were in the winter time and during the night, and a man on duty could give instant warning.

Councillor Taylor objects that the meeting was out of order, twenty-four hours notice not having been given. The ratepayers should be consulted or a matter of this kind. He himself had only had notice since five o'clock that afternoon, while the statute called for twenty-four hours notice.

He thought that if the public knew of this they would object. He did not believe that the town had the money to spend on salary for a night policeman.

Other towns larger than Strathmore are doing without a night policeman, and he did not see where they were warranted in employing one.

The Mayor declared that the meeting was an adjourned one from the regular meeting held last week, and each Councillor had ample notice. He then proceeded to read a letter from Chief Ritchie, Calgary, recommending Mr. Mulvihill, who had had previous police experience.

After some further discussion a motion was passed appointing Mr. Mulvihill to start on October 1. Mr. Taylor asked his dissent to be recorded.

The new Constable has had about fifteen months experience in police work with the North West Mounted Police, and the Alberta Liquor Department.

Resina, Sask.—An indication of the value and extent of Saskatchewan's crop this year is the number of cream bellies and "cannery" houses taken out in the province which is almost double that of last year. Threshing Almost Over

The 1921 crop season is now almost wound up, and all that remains to be done now is to thresh the crop.

Yields have in most cases been disappointing, and the crop will probably be not much more than last year's.

This year there have been variations in yields in farms not more than two or three miles apart. The amount of rainfall during the season has been a factor in the yield.

Some dry land crops have done as well as twenty-five and thirty bushels per acre, while the majority are between ten and twenty, except where hilled.

Increased crops have more than justified the labor of putting water on the land, especially where water was not on time. It is estimated that a large number of irrigated crops were among those destroyed by hail.

An interesting example is afforded by Mr. J. A. Cameron, living six miles west of Strathmore. Mr. Cameron is a consistent irrigator, using the water every year and combining it with crop rotation. His crop was hilled to the extent of 45 per cent, and he had it insured for $20 per acre. Even with the hail damage, twenty acres of wheat sown on land previously in alfalfa averaged 29 bushels per acre, 31 acres of fall plowing averaged 30 bushels per acre, and 32 acres of fall plowing averaged 20 bushels.

There is bound to be a greatly increased demand for irrigation this year, and it will not, as was the case this year, be left until late, when it does not give the best results.

A considerable amount of fall irrigating has been done within the past month, and the present good weather has enabled many to be turned out at full plowing, etc.

The water has not been turned out at the headgates. Applications had been made by some water users to keep the water running for some time after the first of October, but on account of the farmers having some important regular at Cheyenne and Reservoir, they have to lower the level of the lake and dry up the distributaries.

NANKA HARVEST HOME AND SUNDAY SCHOOL RALLY DAY SERVICES

The special Harvest Home service last Sunday afternoon at Nankana was largely attended. The splendid and artistic decorations added much to the attractiveness of the hall. Rev. T. Phillips, pastor, conducted the service and preached on the subject: "The Lord of the Harvest." Members of the Strathmore United Church rendered two tracts very acceptably.

The Sunday School service under the superintendence of Mrs. Myers took the form of a Rally Day program, and several special musical selections by local talent from among the young people. An address on "Laymen" was given by Rev. T. Phillips. Altogether it was a fine service and speaks much for the faith and loyalty of Nankana friends to their church and Sunday School.
